

HAPKIDO

At Master Chang's dojang in Chicago, students are asked to keep the training hall immaculately clean. Many-a-day black belts and lower belts alike can be seen vacuuming the carpet and dusting the shelves.

A new student started a while ago. "Before you go, please vacuum," he was asked. "Who do you think I am," the student protested, "I pay good money to be taught not to clean!"

At that time an Instructor and University Professor was also in the hall. "Tom, vacuum," he was instructed. The instructor smiled,

"Yes, sir."

Later that week the new student returned and apologised, "I had not understood."

Martial Art tradition is full of stories such as this. Stories of disciples cleaning their masters clothes, or spending hours polishing, sometimes only to be told that their efforts are not good enough.

The wise master uses these daily chores as a way of checking his students state of mind, checking their humility, discipline and concentration.

When we notice a speck of dirt on ourselves we must immediately rectify the situation, check our state of mind and attitude. Through purity of mind any imperfections that creep in will immediately be obvious and can be thwarted with little effort. We will increase our energy, be relaxed and have greater self-confidence.

Through this quest for a perfect state of mind, we can and will reach our goals within the martial arts, becoming not only excellent fighters, but also leading figures within our locality.

About the author: Tammy Parlour teaches Hapkido in Lincoln and is a long time student of Master Gedo Chang (8th dan). For more information she may be contacted at 89 Carholme Road, Lincoln, LN1 1RT. Tel. 01522 539468 (evenings).

ATTRACT, MOTIVATE & KEEP STUDENTS LONGER

Struggling to attract and keep students?
At your wits end trying to get your junior students to practice?
Want to improve your junior students standard and increase your income?

As a fellow instructor you know how frustrating it is to try to get your junior students to practice, with more and more distractions these days its also a real problem to keep students in the club training for any length of time.
Not with MBI helping out.

By using MBI ADVERTISING POSTERS you will attract new members to your club.

The MARTIAL ARTS MERIT BADGES will encourage your juniors to practice & keep them in your club longer.

MBI GRADING CERTIFICATES can be awarded for courses, seminars, instructors awards, student of the month, black belt, referee's award, membership certificates etc.

By using MBI motivational products you will get enthusiastic, motivated students who train regularly.

TEL OR SEND TODAY FOR YOUR FREE INFO PACK!

MBI

01745 343875 PHONE NOW!

YES - PLEASE SEND ME:

A free MBI Information Pack on

☐ Certificates ☐ Posters ☐ Badges

Name

Address

Postcode

Tel

SEND TODAY

INSTRUCTORS & CLUB SECRETARIES ONLY
The Studio, 1 Brighton Rd, Rhyl N Wales LL18 3HE